Wheat Advance Problem Still Unsolved

At the time of writing, the question of a cash advance on farm stored grain was still an unsettled question. Meetings were held in Ottawa with representatives of the governments of the three Prairie Provinces, and it was thought that it would only be a matter of days before an announcement was made as to how the advance would be financed.

Hon. J. A. McKinnon, Dominion Minister, came west to iron out the questions, and from reports more snags were encountered. About the first report the west heard was that he and Premier John Bracken had differed as to whose responsibility the advance was, Premier Bracken declaring that it should be undertaken by the Dominion Government, and Mr. McKinnon maintaining that the provinces should do the planning and organizing with the help of the senior government. There it stands.

There is no question but what the problem is a knotty one. Where will the money come from? Will it be interest free to the farmer? If not will the farmer be asked to pay interest on his own wheat stored in his own bin on his own farm? who will verify the stored amount, and who will see that the full amount on which the advance is made remains there?

Another item that will help some to relieve the situation in some districts is the raising of the quota from five to ten bushels per acre that may be delivered to the elevators. There may be some districts where this additional delivery may solve the question of the need of immediate cash. However, Raymond was not included in this added delivery, so that locally our situation remains unchanged. The farmer has wheat but no money, & the wheat can not be sold. He has gone to expense for bins and granaries to store it, and is unable to get money to pay for these goods. What is he going to do, and what is the business man to do that advanced the material. Barter is useless, because only producers can sell grain, and if a business man got 10,000 bushel of wheat in on his accounts, he would either have to keep the grain, as a dead asset for the time at least, or else pass it on to the wholesalers and let them hold it or pass it on to the manufacturers.

It seems unfair to ask the farmer to pay interest on his own grain in his own bins, and no one is going to proffer the money interest free, and if the Governments assume the cost of the plan it is going to be necessary to put on taxes somewhere to cover it, so the circle commences again. Many new ideas are put forth with respect to the problem, and as to how workable they are, who shall say? The question remains however, that an advance is a decided necessity and action should be taken at once by either Dominion or Provincial authorities, or both, to see that an advance is made so that financial burdens may be somewhat eased, and business assume its usual course again over the wide sweeps of Canada's prairie.

Speakers in the 2nd Ward Sunday evening were professor Joseph F. Smith of Salt Lake City, who has been at the Banff School of Fine Arts, and S. I. May, Mrs. Emma Dahl rendered a piano solo and Miss Jeannine Wilde a vocal solo, besides numbers from the graduating St. Gull Girls. A large audience was in attendance.

P. J. CHRISTENSEN FAMILY REUNION

Gathering in a family reunion at the old home last Sunday, the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of P. J. Christensen, old timer and respected pioneer of Raymond, enjoyed a day of companionship and conversation that will remain a joyful memory with them for many years.

Two of his daughters from Utah, with some of their children, Parley, Melvin and Willis from Lethbridge, Elmo from Medicine Hat and Leonard from Macleod all with their wives and children were present to swell the crowd and enjoy the day besides those right here in Raymond. We extend our congratulations to Mr. Christensen and wish him many more years of happiness.

Twelve O'clock And All's Well

(From "The Constitution," Atlanta Georgia)

There must be today, millions of spirits that walk, bravely, across the length and breadth of beleaguered Britain. The spirits of those men of the ancient race who gave to her the greatness that is knowing miraculous resurgence as, once more, the fate of human liberty is laid upon her hands and hearts and courage.

It is good to think that among those spirits, walk the ancient watchmen of the night, carrying their lanterns to light the dark hours and crying, as they walk, "Twelve o'clock and all's well." All's well with Britain, as her sons and daughters stand, undaunted, a final rampart to the ruthless foe.

All's well because the tongue of Chaucer, of Shakespeare, of Milton, of Keats, of Shelley, of Kipling, of Tennyson, of Barrie of the King James translation of the Scriptures, can never be the tongue of an enslaved race.

All's well because the blood of Froisher, of Drake, of Raleigh, of Cromwell, of Wellington of Nelson, of the million of fighting men who have died to keep Britain free, can never course through the veins of an enslaved people.

All's well because the passion for human liberty and human rights that inspired the men of Runnymede, that set aflame the hearts of men who dared their all that tyranny should be crushed, that forced British democracy ever to march on, side by side and step by step with the growth of empire, can never be quenched under the oppression of any master.

All's well in Britain because the common people are aroused, because from the ordinary, average people, from whom England's greatest have ever come, there still arises that determination, that bulldog stubbornness that unconquerable spirit which cannot live enslaved.

The wisest seers among men cannot say what yet is to come. But this all men may know: There is a very lovely heart of civilization and of freedom threatened by an obscene force, an indecent return to savagery, sparked by unmoral ambition. The shadow today lies over an ancient and a noble land. It darkens the graves of poets and philosophers and martyrs. It hangs, threatening over the very birthplace of human liberty and human progress.

The vultures soar over England's green fields and stately homes, they swoop upon the humble cots and quiet hills.

We on this side can know little of the one factor that must, in the final accounting, decide this issue. That is, the spirit of a people awakened and determined. There must be a marvellous story, being told on the pages of history, in Britain today. The spectacle of a people arising as one, to defend to death the land they hold so dear, must be a tremendous thing to watch.

Even Hitler has been awed. What other interpretation can be put upon his petulant and ridiculous complaint that "home guards" can be only violators of the code of war, to be shot against a wall when captured? The world has never witnessed such absurd effrontery as an appeal, by this man, to any code of war. He, and Germany, of all aces, have most ruthlessly and heartlessly scorned the codes of war, of honor, of humanity, of human decency, where ever it served their foul purpose.

Hitler cannot conquer Britain. We who know the history and the spirit and the meaning of British civilization, we who know the love of country that fills their souls, know that no invader can stay alive on English soil so long as one Englishman remains alive to strike a blow for freedom.

There can be but one outcome when the British people have arisen, moved by a single impulse, to defend

This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle,

This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,

This other Eden, demi-paradise; This fortress, built by Nature for herself,

Against infection and the hand of war,

This happy breed of men, this little world,

This precious stone set in the silver sea,

Which serves it in the office of a wall

Or as a moat defensive to a house—

Against the envy of less happier lands—

This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, This England.

The vultures gather, but still the spirit of the ancient watch-philosophers and martyrs. It man walks in England and still his brave voice reassures,

"Twelve o'clock, and all's well!"

Battle Of The Air Continues

"It is a message of good cheer to our fighting forces on the seas, in the air and in our waiting armies in all their posts and stations that we send them from this capital city. They know that they have behind them a people who will not flinch or weary of the struggle. . . that we shall draw from the hearts of suffering a victory won not only for ourselves but but for all; a victory won not only for our time but for the long and better days that are to come."

With these ringing words,

2ND WARD MUTUAL OFFICERS PARTY

NEWS NOTES

B. F. Tanner and Frank Pilling of Lethbridge were Raymond visitors Thursday afternoon.

Other things being equal, we should more than ever trade at home this year. Our local business men need the support, and Raymond needs the business men.

Local fruit, crabapples, and cherries, hybrid plums, & some larger apples have been picked on different lots about town during the past two or three weeks. Some exceptionally heavy yields in some of this small fruit has been reported.

Sunday evening last was family night in the Raymond 1st Ward, and the programme was furnished by the Loran Larson family. Burns Larson took charge of the program, and talks were given by Mrs. Loran Larson and L. L. Palmer of the 2nd Ward Bishopric, besides some musical numbers.

Elders Guy Alexander and Nephi Allen, the latter visiting here, were speakers at the Rotary luncheon on Monday, to their impressions and observations while doing missionary work in Switzerland. Their remarks on the geography of the country, government, schools, military service, and so on were very interesting. Guy also entertained with some selections on his piano accordion which he brought back from Europe with him. After the L.D.S. missionaries were called out of Europe these two missionaries finished their missions in the Eastern States and were released at the same time to return home.

When the Picture Butte Royals took both ends of a double header from the Lethbridge miners last Sunday in Lethbridge they won themselves the Alberta Senior Baseball Championship for the third straight year. Good crowds witnessed both games despite the cool weather.

Premier Winston Churchill of Great Britain concluded his speech to the British Empire on Wednesday, in which he told of the continuous bombardment of the nation's capital for four days, during which time Nazi raiders had bombed indiscriminately old age and youth, schools and hospitals, churches, and cathedrals, even dropping a bomb in the grounds of Buckingham palace in an effort to break the morale of the British people. Speaking of these acts of violence the Prime Minister stated that if Nazi officials hoped by this to break the spirit of Britain they underestimated that which had made Britain the power she has been for generations past. These acts, he said merely kindled a fire which would burn unceasingly until it had burned out the last traces of Nazism and dictatorships across the continent of Europe.

In his talk, Mr. Churchill warned of the congregating and movement of barges up, and down the coast of Europe in what appeared to be preparations for a mass invasion of the coast of England, and stated that naval guns, as well as bombing planes had been raking these points regularly every night which had made the task a very difficult one for the enemy, and that the next week would very likely be a very important one in the history of the present campaign, because if the enemy had any intention of invading with his armies, it would need to be in the next few days as weather over the channel was liable to break any time, which would make such an invasion impossible. Speaking of Britain's defence forces, he stated that the air force and navy were waiting to meet the foe, and that if troops did land on the English coast they would be met with thousands of well trained and determined troops, and should they pass these ramparts of defence there were a million and a half men of the home guard, trained, waiting and anxious to engage the enemy.

The Prime Minister's speech was loud in the praise of the R.A.F. and their disastrous forays into Germany where untold damage has been done. In dog fights over England, Hitler had paid very dearly for every damage he had recked, in the loss of planes at a ratio of about four to one, and in men, which he would find it difficult to replace. Late reports of the War Ministry told of the use of small self-igniting pieces of cardboard, which had been scattered all over Germany, starting fires in the most unexpected places. These were used in an effort to get ammunition stores known to be hidden in forests and open country places, where they could not be found. The German people for souvenirs, had starved fires in pockets, in trunks, in dresser drawers, in alleys, on roof tops, and every other place to the discomfort of people and officials. Due to their phosphorus content, they had also caused burns or picked them up and held them. The war still goes on and Britain still stands undaunted and unafraid.

When the Picture Butte Royals took both ends of a double header from the Lethbridge miners last Sunday in Lethbridge they won themselves the Alberta Senior Baseball Championship for the third straight year. Good crowds witnessed both games despite the cool weather.

HOW ABOUT IT?

It's harvest time. Once again there is a touch of frost in the air in the early mornings and late evenings. Once again the lawns are covered with the fall of leaves and hedges and wind breaks are getting more bare with each day that passes and each wind that blows. Once again the rows of stooks and the hum of binders bear witness to the fact that another crop has been brought safely through the many hazards which bedevil the farmer during the growing season, and in a short time threshing outfits will be busy on what is expected to prove the heaviest crop in many years for this area. It's harvest time.

At this time of year, when the farmer is reaping the reward of his long months of toil in the fields, when the general merchant, the implement companies and the other creditors of the primary producer confidently expect to receive the money which has been owing to them for the past several months, this may we also enter a plea for payment of arrears on our subscription list.

Like all other businesses in a small town such as this, we are entirely dependent upon the prosperity and good-will of the district farmers. If times are tough, the crops fail and the farmers are unable to pay for the paper they receive each week, it becomes necessary for the editor and staff to tighten their belts and begin to talk hopefully about next year's crop and how good it is going to be. In other years, such as this, when the farmer has an average or better than average crop, we look confidently forward to the steady parade of farmers who, unable to pay last year, still received the paper and are now in a position to pay up not only the arrears but a year or so in advance. The individual amounts are not large—a $5.00 bill would put most of them in good standing for some time to come—but in the aggregate the sum is considerable and is the deciding factor in whether or not the editor and staff will have not only bread to eat in the winter months but possibly a little jam on it, also.

It's harvest time. The co-operation of the farmers will make it our harvest time as well as theirs. How about it?

NEW BORDER RULES SIMPLIFY TRAVEL

For Temporary Visitors to U.S.A., Passports Still Needed
But no Visas and No Formal Registration

New regulations simplifying entrance of temporary visitors and border crossing commuters to the United States, issued at Washington, Sunday, have been explained at the U.S. legation at Ottawa as follows:

1. Beginning Aug. 28, identification cards will be issued to commuters who cross the border daily and to Canadians contemplating visits of less than 29 days.

2. These cards will substitute for non-immigration visas formerly required of visitors.

3. Canadian passports will still be required.

4. Holders of identification cards will not be formerly registered and finger printed as are all alien residents of the United States.

The Canadian passport is the means of control by the Canadian government. The issuance of cards will enable the U.S. government to check against with less interference with them than when a visa is required.

The cards will be issued by any immigration official or U.S. consul.

There is no charge for the cards, issuance of which will be a matter of five or ten minutes.

FATE OF NATIONS FORECAST IN PROPHECY

TRACT WRITTEN IN 1600 BY A MONK, PREDICTED
PRESENT CONFLICT

Although it is a generally accepted belief that one cannot peer into the future and successfully predict what will happen a year hence, we bring here a copy of a Latin prophecy made in 1600 which is remarkable in relation to the present war. In reading the prophecy, supposedly written by a monk, Brother Johannes, it should be kept in mind that:

France is represented by a Cock.

England is represented by a Leopard.

Russia is represented by a White Eagle.

Germany is represented by a Black Eagle.

Italy perhaps by some other Eagle, while the Lamb stands for justice, mercy and truth. It would be assumed in this instance that the Antichrist is Adolph Hitler. Says the prophecy:

"Toward the year 2,000 the Antichrist will manifest himself. His army will surpass in numbers all that can be imagined. There will be Christians among his legions and there will be Mohammedans and savage soldiers among the defenders of the Lamb.

Subscribe to the Recorder

For the first time the Lamb will be all red. There will not be a single spot in the Christian world that will not be red, and red will be in the heavens, the earth, the waters and even in the air; for blood will flow in the domain of the four elements at once.

The Black Eagle will throw himself on the Cock, who will lose many feathers, but who will strike back heroically with his spurs. He soon would be crushed were it not for the help of the Leopard and his claws.

The Black Eagle will come from the country of Luther, will surprise the Cock from another side and will invade the country of the Cock up to the middle of it.

The White Eagle coming from the North, will surprise the Black Eagle and the other Eagle and will invade the country of the Antichrist from one end to another. The Black Eagle will see himself forced to, liberate the Cock in order to fight the White Eagle, and the Cock will pursue the Black Eagle into the country of the Antichrist to help the White Eagle.

The battles fought up to then will be as nothing compared to those which take place in the country of Luther, for the seven angels will pour in the fire of their censers on the impious earth, which signifies that the Lamb will order the extermination of the race of the Antichrist.

When the Black Eagle sees that he is lost, he will become furious and for many months the beak of the White Eagle, the claws of the Leopard and the spurs of the Cock, will furiously strike back at him.

They will cross rivers over the bodies of the slain, and these, in places, will change the course of the waters. They will bury only the men of noble families, the leading commanders and the princes because to the carnage made by the armies will be joined the wholesale death of those who will die of hunger or the pest.

The Antichrist will ask many times for peace, but the seven angels who walk in front of the three animals defending the Lamb have declared that victory will only be granted on the condition that the Antichrist is crushed like straw on the barn floor.

The executors of the justice of the Lamb cannot stop fighting as long as the Antichrist possesses soldiers to fight against them.

That which makes the decree of the Lamb so implacable is that the Antichrist has pretended to be a follower of Christ and to act in His name, and if he does not perish the fruits of the Redeemer would be lost and the doors of Hades would prevail against the Saviour.

The fight will take place where the Antichrist forges his arms and will not be in any way a human fight. The three animals defending the Lamb will exterminate the last army of the Antichrist but they will be forced to erect on the battlefield a pyre as large as a city, for the bodies of the dead will change the aspect of the countryside as there will be a mound of the slain.

The Antichrist will lose his crown and will die in solitude and madness. His empire shall be divided into twenty-two states, but none of them will any longer possess fortresses, armies or vessels.

The White Eagle by the order of St. Michael, will drive the Crescent from Europe and will install himself in Constantinople. Then will begin an era of peace and prosperity for the earth and there will be no more wars, each nation being governed according to its desires and living according to the rulers of justice.

There will no longer be Lutherans or Schismatics. The Lamb will reign and the supreme happiness of humanity will begin. Happy will be those who, escaping the perils of the period, will be able to enjoy the fruit of the reign of the spirit and of the purging of humanity, which can only come after the defeat of the Antichrist.

SELECTING EWIE LAMBS

There is a campaign underway, in connection with Canada's war effort, to increase sheep production in Canada by salvaging ewe lambs that would otherwise go into feed lots this fall. In order that the outcome of this may be successful in the maintenance of the quality of breeding stock, some care must be exercised in selecting ewe lambs for this purpose. Naturally the rancher producer of such lambs will have selected what he considered the best for replacement in his own band, but nevertheless there will be a large number of good ewe lambs for sale.

A small ewe lamb, provided it is thrifty in appearance and not a "bum" will be quite suitable if it is well fed during the winter and has an opportunity of growing to its maximum capacity. All lambs, whether small or well grown should be carefully selected for body type. While wool is always useful and is a war time necessity, the fact remains that in any year the returns from the sale of lambs are greater than from wool, so conformation should get first consideration.

General conformation, as exemplified by depth of body, a strong back, well-sprung ribs and well filled leg are important factors to note. Legginess is a seriousness fault and a leggy lamb should not be considered as usually it will be lacking in desirable conformation especially in muscling of the hind quarters. Head type, as such, may not be extremely important in commercial sheep production but soundness of mouth, that is freedom from the undershot or overshot condition is essential.

Wool cover should be given consideration especially to ensure freedom from hairiness in the britch arch of the fleece. In extreme cases this can be observed without handling the fleece but no accurate estimate of the quality of a fleece can be obtained without opening the britch. Lambs with short staple wool should be avoided as such individuals will very likely produce a relatively light fleece and possibly clothing wool.

Without question many good ewe lambs will be available this fall and it only requires a little care in selection to ensure obtaining lambs that will develop into good breeding ewes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Zabriskie left Thursday morning for Provo, Utah, upon receipt of word of the death there of Arnold's older brother Irvin. They will return immediately after the funeral services. We extend our sympathies to Arnold in his sorrow.

With the over abundance of cucumbers, tomatoes, etc. there should be no famine for any of the winter eatables that these delicacies provide. The summer's yields of vine plants in this district has been almost without parallel we believe. One can, not even give them away so plentiful are they.

An informal social evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Knight Friday evening last when Mrs. Knight entertained in honor of a few friends, visiting in Southern Alberta, amongst whom were her daughter Charlotte, home for a visit from her work in White Plains, New York, Prof. Joseph F. Smith and Harry Allen, well known Salt Lake actor, and Mayor and Mrs. D. H. Elton, Bishop and Mrs. C. Frank Steel and Miss Lois Heninger of Lethbridge.

The use of torpedo bombs and great huge bombs by Germany weighing one thousand pounds, has opened a new chapter in aerial warfare. A school in which hundreds of Britishers had taken refuge, was hit by a torpedo bomb and 400 men, women and children were killed. If Britain answers in kind, and has as much success in getting their targets as she has done with the ordinary bomb, we feel sorry indeed for Germany as her cities will be left a mass of smouldering ruins. To date the British bombings have been concentrated on military objectives, but it begins to look as though she may be obliged to follow the lead of Hitler's airmen and bomb everything and everybody. No doubt this would be language that Germany would understand at least.

SHE FOUND OUT

A patient who complained of digestive troubles was told by a specialist that he was drinking too much, and would have to knock it off.

"Well," said the patient, "what am I to tell my wife?" The doctor thought for a few minutes, then said: "Tell her you are suffering from syncope. That will satisfy her."

The patient did as he was told. "What is syncope?" asked his wife. "I don't know," said the husband, "but that's what he said." When her husband had gone out the wife looked up the word in the dictionary, and found that it meant, "irregular movement from bar to bar." — Dunnville Recorder.

Cook: "Did the company say anything about the cooking?" Maid: "No, but I noticed them praying before they started eating."

Mother: "Willie, I'm shocked to hear you using such language. Do you learn it at school?" Willie: "Learn it at school? No, Mom; it's me that teaches it to the other boys."

Production of tungsten, hardening agent for steel that is an important war material, will commence at Outpost Island of Great Slave Lake, it is stated in mining circles here. Re-organization of the company owning the mine has resulted in a 50 ton mill being ordered for installation next spring. Gold will also be recovered in the area.

The more one gets acquainted with people, the more one discovers that we all have our troubles. While one class envies the other, because of imagined wealth, social position or something else, those being envied would probably be glad to trade places with their neighbors to get some of the things they are denied. The sweets of life come to those who render service, maybe our individualism in thought and act are the things that close the door of happiness and contentment.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

The officer of the day stopped a mess orderly as he was carrying a soup kettle out of the kitchen.

"Here, you," he snapped, "give me a taste of that."

"Obediently he was handed a ladle and he tasted. "Great Scott, do you call that soup?" he roared.

"No, sir," responded the orderly meekly, "that's dishwater."

Greater trade between Alberta and British Columbia was urged here this week by Premier Aberhart. "We should be able to arrange for an exchange of commodities on a purely commercial basis free from government control. You need our grain. We need your lumber, your fruit and your fish. Why should there be waste for lack of a suitable well ordered scheme of sale and purchase?"

Designed by Major W. H. Cross, research petrologist and former Imperial staff officer, a new bullet proof vest has won the approval of Toronto Police Inspector William Bolton. Shooting .38 revolver slugs and sub-machine gun bullets into the new armor, the officer found them turned "inside out" by the inside material. It is made from rock, says the inventor. And it is from a rock only found in Canada.

Yes, You CAN Get a Job

We maintain an efficient Employment Department, whose services are free to you, but you do not need the help of an employment department to get a job for yourself. Of course we help you by showing you where jobs are, how to find them, and how to get them after you find them.

More important than that, however, is the help we give our young people to qualify for permanency on the job—for a continuously successful career.

Of course in what we have said, thorough preparation for a position is taken for granted. If you have nothing to sell, you will find no customers. But don't let anyone tell you that you cannot get a job. YOU can.

Let us help you prepare for one. Fall term opens Tuesday, September 3rd.

War Loan Going Ahead

We received the following wire at noon today:

Canada's Second War Loan Friday morning needed $76,870,600 to reach its objective. Cash subscriptions to Thursday night totalled $223,129,400. While Canadians were responding to the direct appeal by Hon. J.L. Illsley, Minister of Finance, the Sales force will redouble its efforts to secure the necessary volume of Small Private Subscriptions to carry the Loan over the top. The Sales force will carry with it the Finance Minister's message: "Here is an opportunity for the many to show how they feel about the few whose courage is winning the day for us all."

The drunk weaved up the avenue. "Yes," replied the receptionist, "this is the beauty shop." "Well, bring one out," sputtered the beauty shop. "Hello," he said, "ish this the beauty shop?"

Alberta Publishers Feted At "Wonderful Waterton"

When the Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association gathered at Waterton National Park on Saturday, August 31, this group picture was snapped by the Herald's cameraman. The convention delegates and their wives were guests of the Lethbridge Herald at a luncheon at the Prince of Wales hotel and it was at the hotel that the picture was taken. Senator Buchanan, host for the luncheon, is shown on the extreme right. The group also enjoyed a cruise to the head of the lakes arranged by the Canadian Pacific Hotel Company, Ltd., operators of the Prince of Wales hotel, who also arranged an interesting Indian powwow featuring Blackfoot Indians from Glacier National Park, Montana.

the wish to escape, working unconsciously within her, produces the symptoms of which she complains. Then, when she has escaped the dreaded ordeal, the symptoms disappear and she is all right again.

Now it is not quite true to say that such pains are imaginary. They are very real, although produced by fear, so do not harshly accuse the child of shunning or of deception. Get to the root of the trouble by inquiring what takes place at school on those particular days.
You will probably discover it is something that can be easily rectified.

If you do find there is some difficulty at school which she ought to face and is seeking to escape, then you must encourage her to face it. Show her there is nothing to fear, and make her feel that even her teachers do not expect more than the best from her. Should you find she is afraid of some particular teacher, a talk with that teacher will probably serve to create a better understanding between teacher and child.

At all events your child must be trained to face life and you can never train her to do that by over-indulgence or by sheltering her from every difficulty and hardship.

It will not do to give in to your little girl. If the doctor insists there is nothing organically wrong, he is probably right, and you must look for the cause elsewhere. I believe you will find it just where I have indicated.

Of course you must not be cross with the child and scold her. That would be cruel and only tend to aggravate the symptoms. Be kindly, firm and reasonable. Show her how these fears must be overcome, otherwise she will never be able to meet the problem of later life.

What is your problem? Dr.
Lappin will help you to solve it.

PROTEST SPEEDING ON ALBERTA ROADS

Enforcement of the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act in this province has been called for by the Alberta Motor Association, which has submitted its request to the provincial authorities and the R.C.M.P.

A recent communication from J. A. Knoepf, of Calgary, to the highway traffic board, which was endorsed by the local branch of the A.M.A., drew attention to complaints of visiting tourists. These include speeding and passing cars on dangerous corners and hills, parking on highways after dark, passing cars without dimming lights and lack of proper signal when passing cars.

Further need of action was revealed when a member of the Calgary branch reported that in one trip over the main highway between Edmonton and Calgary he had noted the following law violations: 22 cars with no tail-light; 57 with one head light; 109 failed to dim their lights; 28 were travelling at a speed estimated between 60 and 70 miles per hour.

Reduction of the number of accidents on Alberta highways will be affected only through the elimination of dangerous driving and the enforcement of traffic regulations, it is emphasized by officials of the A.M.A.
